Allison Luna Appointed Director of Special Projects and Programs

Global food Solutions announces the hiring of Allison Luna as its Director of Special Projects and Programs. Allison holds a Master's degree in Interdisciplinary Health Sciences from Drexel University College of Medicine and shares our passion for developing healthy and wholesome food products. She will be providing support and management for our special projects division based out of our corporate headquarters. This appointment allows Global Food Solutions to continue its expansion plans by providing additional management, and growth to our special projects division.

Allison comes from a strong background in Food Service Management and Program Management with over 5 years experience. Previously having worked in the Food Brokerage industry with some of the largest food service brands, Allison's experience will allow our company to continue to grow our unique product offerings under our Global Food Solutions umbrella of brands and products.
